The righteous man walks in his integrity; His children are blessed after him.
PROVERBS 20:7

IN THE RING WITH ROCKY

"I had finally had it. The children were loud, cranky, impossible. I was tired and fed up. My wife was tired and fed up. I decided that I was going to run away from it all and have a day just for me. I wanted to spoil myself. I wanted to have a day in which I did just what I wanted to do. I was going to live it up and be as greedy as I pleased. I wasn't going to tend to anyone except myself.

I zoomed out of the house with fifty dollars. There! I did it, I said to myself as I drove to the highway and headed north.

Well, I drove to a mall and had a wild time in a bookstore and bought the collected poems of Walt Whitman. After that I drove and drove to a McDonald's and ordered two hamburgers, my own large fries, and my own large soda. I ate everything without being interrupted, without giving my pickle to anyone, without wiping someone's mouth, nose or holding them on my lap. Then I bought the biggest chocolate ice cream I could find.

I was free. I was out on the town, so I drove to a movie theater and watched a movie without buying popcorn, without someone sitting on my lap without escorting someone to the bathroom. I was a free man. I was living it up. And I WAS MISERABLE!

By the time I had returned home, everyone was asleep. As I slipped into bed, my wife whispered, "We missed you."

"Me, too," I answered. I never ran away from home again."

—Christopher De Vinck

If you are in the middle of the pressures of raising a family, remember, it's no fun being alone.

"Children are a reward from the Lord," wrote the psalmist. So take the kids today to McDonald's, or to a bookstore, or to the movies. Take them anywhere except out of your heart.

I love you all, Pastor Rocky
